International Investment Security

Project Title	International Investment Security
Project Summary	Monitor open-source investment security information and develop outreach and analysis materials on investment screening and foreign direct investment (FDI).
Country	United States

Project Description

Monitor and report on open-source developments in investment security, including Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS) news, international investment screening developments, and trends in international acquisitions and FDI. Conduct individual projects to develop guidance for U.S. embassies on investment screening best practices, case studies for responding to national security threats in investment transactions, and analyze trends in FDI in the U.S.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)
Analytical writing
Data analysis
Economic analysis
Editing and proofreading
Writing

Additional Information

This program is intended for two interns to collaborate on weekly reports on open-source information for the Office of Investment Affairs. Each intern would also be responsible for an individual project over the course of two to three months related to economic analysis of foreign transactions or a legal review of new investment screening regimes in Europe and elsewhere.

Language Requirements

None